Come hear celebrated lecturer, Dr. John Rosa discuss the history behind the Opioid Crisis in America, the status of the epidemic presently (in the context of COVID) and the means by which you can learn how to integrate yourself as a chiropractor into your community working with other allied health care providers and non-profits to effect positive change in the battle against addiction.

Teaching others in your community about the effectiveness of chiropractic and that we're a natural drug-free option is an effective way to grow your practice.

Dr. Rosa owns and supervises Accessible Beltway Clinics, which is comprised of 17 clinics in Maryland and Virginia that sees over 60,000 patient visits per year. ABC Clinics combine medicine, chiropractic, physical therapy, acupuncture and behavioral medicine to give a comprehensive multidisciplinary approach to pain syndromes and musculoskeletal disorders. Active in sports medicine with consulting/treating college, professional and Olympic athletes. Founder of Accessible Wellness Solutions – an onsite corporate wellness program offering consulting, lectures and management of onsite clinics.
